TOWN OF BLADENSBURG

County Council District 5 / Legislative District 47A

Mayor Takisha D. James

Mayor Takisha D. James was elected as the first African American female mayor of the Town of Bladensburg in October 2017 and reelected in 2021. A Bladensburg resident for more than 20 years, she lives with her husband, former Mayor Walter L. James, Jr., and their daughter Imani. Before seeking elected office, she developed a passion for community service as a volunteer for the Bladensburg Police Department's Community Oriented Police Unit, hosting a number of community events to help foster strong, positive relationships among the Bladensburg Police Department and minority residents. Since being elected, Mayor James has worked with Town Council Members and staff to bring resources to the Bladensburg community, including more than $600,000 in computer donations from the State of Maryland for local schools and more than $5.5 million in federal support (through the CARES Act and ARPA) for residents affected by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Fun Fact for Mayor James

Mayor Takisha D. James is the second Mayor James in the Town of Bladensburg, having succeeded her husband, Mayor Walter L. James, Jr. in 2017. There has been a Mayor James serving in the Town of Bladensburg for the past 16 consecutive years.

Fun Fact About Bladensburg

While the two Mayors James' are the first spouses to serve as Mayors in Bladensburg, they are not the first relatives to do so. Susanna K. Cristofane was the Town's Mayor for a decade (1975-1985) and her daughter, H. Susanna Cristofane Yatman subsequently served as Mayor from 1993-1995. The Cristofane family owned and resided in the Bostwick House (1746), the historic home of the first US Secretary of the Navy and one of the few remaining colonial structures still standing in Bladensburg. This Georgian mansion is on the National Register of Historic Places and, in 1997, Bostwick was sold to the Town of Bladensburg to ensure its preservation as a piece of United States, Maryland, Prince George's County, and Bladensburg history.

Mayor Alan Thompson

Mayor Alan Thompson was born and raised in Austin, Texas, and met his wife of 36 years while both were attending Rice University. He attended graduate school at MIT and received his doctorate. After finding a stable job in Gaithersburg, he and his wife went looking for a great place to live, eventually choosing Riverdale Park and Prince George's County because both were "more interesting" places to live than other choices. After living in Riverdale Park for a few years, he became involved as a volunteer in town government (including, eventually, campaigns). During this time he became interested in new urbanism and worked with others to establish the mixed-use "M-U-TC" zoning that was the foundation of the Riverdale Park Station development that hosts the county's first Whole Foods Market. After ignoring many calls to run for office, he finally ran for office as a council representative in 2009 and won. After eight years as a council representative he ran for the open seat of mayor and again won. He is currently serving in his third term as mayor and always looking for ways to make Riverdale Park a great place to live, work, or visit.

Fun Fact for Mayor Thompson

Over the last few years, Mayor Thompson has kayaked in Maryland during every month of the year, at temperatures as low as 37 degrees.

Fun Fact About Riverdale Park

In 1920, a handful of owners in Riverdale Park and West Riverdale petitioned the Maryland General Assembly requesting authority to incorporate the two neighborhoods as a municipality. The two communities were incorporated on June 4, 1920.
